Right to Try Victories:

Jim Burhorn was diagnosed with neuroendocrine cancer and would have been forced to travel to Switzerland—and risk losing his job—for lifesaving treatment. Thanks to Right to Try, he received treatment in the United States.

Matt Bellina is a retired Navy pilot who suffers from ALS—a debilitating disease. Thanks to Right to Try, he received a groundbreaking treatment that relieved some of his most severe conditions.

Letter from a Scholar

A decade ago, the Goldwater Institute set out to address an appalling reality: terminally ill Americans are routinely blocked from potentially lifesaving treatments by government bureaucracy.

Now, thanks to our groundbreaking Right to Try law, patients are escaping that nightmare. Passed in 41 states and then by Congress in 2018, Right to Try has become a literal lifesaver for people with diseases like cancer and ALS. But it's time to take the next step.

Some of the options covered by Right to Try are off-limits for the 1 in 10 Americans with a rare disease – many of them children. Innovation is outpacing regulation, and these new treatments can't get through the FDA's antiquated approval processes in time to save lives.

That's why we're taking Right to Try to the next level, so the growing number of patients seeking individualized treatments aren't trapped by needless red tape. We at Goldwater know how to make revolutionary reforms a reality. Following our successful Right to Try roadmap, we've already enacted "Right to Try for Individualized Treatments" in states including Arizona, Maryland, Mississippi, Nevada, and North Carolina.

With your support, the Right to Try for Individualized Treatments could open a new era, where care is determined not by D.C. bureaucrats, but by doctors and patients working together – so all Americans can live freer, happier, and more hopeful lives.

Letter from the President

The Goldwater Institute is working around the clock to defend the fundamental rights and freedoms of all Americans. Thanks to your support, 2024 has been a watershed year in expanding liberty nationwide. Goldwater has passed laws across the country, including eliminating "diversity, equity, and inclusion" (DEI) policies in taxpayer-funded universities in over a dozen states. Such DEI programs promote anti-American views that are antithetical to our founding principles of equal treatment under the law.

Goldwater is also empowering families by protecting the rights of patients to use cutting-edge, genetic treatments free from bureaucratic obstructions. This life-saving reform, the Right to Try for Individualized Treatments, has been adopted in states as diverse as Louisiana, Arizona, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Nevada, and North Carolina, and is currently being considered in states from coast to coast.

Your support has made these and other groundbreaking reforms possible, aiding countless Americans who just want to live their lives free from government interference. On behalf of the entire Goldwater team, I'm deeply grateful for your continued commitment to our shared vision of freer, happier lives for all.

A Letter from The Hon. Doug Ducey

The Goldwater Institute is protecting your individual liberties and fighting every day for limited government. Through their legislation, national network of attorneys, and partnerships with groups across the country, no other organization in America is fighting harder for your rights and freedoms.

In 2022, I signed into law the Goldwater Institute's tax reform. Arizona was the first state in the nation to adopt this new legislation. Since then, Arizona has become a haven for American citizens fleeing from government overreach. Arizona is a freer, happier state because of Goldwater's efforts, and we are leading the way for the other 49 states in our country. None of this would have happened without the Goldwater Institute.

Goldwater is leading the charge of holding elected leaders accountable for their actions. There's no one else more on the cutting edge of crafting good legislation for the American people.

The Hon. Doug Ducey
23rd Governor of Arizona
